

BARNRAISING TOUR 2019

Building healthy food systems and community across the Atlantic.

Borgo Basino is a folk school, ecovillage and organic farm in Italy. With over 30 years of experience in multifunctional farming and hospitality, we invite you to help launch our new community-based agricultural innovation incubator this fall! Support our work as we build on connections along the West Coast.

Join us on Tuesday, November 5th 6:30-8:30 at the Deadwood Community Center for a potluck, presentation, raffle and invite to join our work!

We'll share about Borgo Basino's three main project areas:

"The Farm School" hosts grassroots research and education projects building networks of community health. You can join or support courses on trauma-awareness for refugee workers, participatory research on diet for holistic healthcare and new models for rural sustainable development.

"The Farm Village" welcomes 8 new long-term collaborators to form an intentional community onsite in Fall 2019. You can join us for short term stays as well as 1-3 month artistic, therapeutic and academic residencies.

"The Farm Table" offers cooking classes and slow food tours on our EU pilot organic farm and in the surrounding territory, one of Europe's leading artisanal food capitals. Our next step is building a new multi-use barn, workshop and laboratory for expanding our work in permaculture, aquaponics, and community wellness networks.

For tour questions and RSVP contact Evan Welkin: evan@borgobasino.org

Learn more at borgobasino.org

Follow and get in touch @borgobasino

